Principal's Message

The name Lincoln is already famous. Although your days at Lincoln are now over, remember that learning takes place almost constantly. Only the techniques of learning are taught in school, as learning is education.

A background is necessary in any given field of endeavor. Your education is your background. If you have learned to your capacity, developed traits your teachers felt were necessary, and listened to your parents, you are ready to assume your difficult role in the adult society.

As a representative of the staff, I want to wish you a very successful future.

W. E. Giverson,

Superintendent's Message

The best wishes of the Board of Education and of the Administration go with the graduating seniors. We appreciate the contributions you have made to the school program by your participation in the activities at Lincoln.

It is our sincere hope that the knowledge you have acquired, the skills you have developed and the experiences you have had at Lincoln School will enable each of you to succeed in your chosen life work. The quality of your education will be measured by your future and we hope your future will be bright.

Perhaps this Yearbook will help you to remember your classmates and your school, inducing you to share your future with us through membership in the Alumni Association and through responsible citizen participation in educational affairs.

Vernon H. Jones

Class Will and Prophecy

We, the class of 1963, do leave to those who will follow us in 1964 and the years following the hope that they will participate in more scenes like this which followed the second Milan game; and we prophesy that if they will only work together and play together in the way we believe they can, there can be no doubt that they will, because we know that when the students of Lincoln High School are truly consolidated, nothing can stand in their way.

(Signed) The newest Lincoln Alumni

CONGRATULATIONS, GRADUATES!

Your friends at Michigan Bell hope that the many years ahead are good to you.
